Statutory Reporting

As finance teams shift to a digital-first approach, we have supported organisations across multiple industries to implement a global statutory reporting solution covering multiple countries and GAAPs.

With the April 2028 Companies House changes approaching, many are accelerating the move from Word and Excel to a streamlined, template-driven process. This enables first drafts of financial statements and dynamic supporting notes to be produced in minutes, reducing errors, driving efficiency, and ensuring digital compliance.

For larger groups, we also provide a pre-built Alteryx workflow to automate financial data loading – a capability we believe is unique in the industry.

Using the Thomson Reuters ONESOURCE Statutory Reporting solution, we have helped finance teams harness key benefits of adopting a templated approach including:

- Consistency: a uniform format across all entities and jurisdictions
- Efficiency: faster preparation and review with less manual work
- Accuracy: reduced errors through predefined structures and calculations
- Scalability: easily applied to more entities as the group grows
- Control: clearer oversight with repeatable, auditable processes
- Audit readiness: a transparent audit trail with less variation
- Knowledge capture: embedding best practice and reducing reliance on individuals
